Minnesota Legislature.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 6.

SENATE.—No business was transacted yesterday the legislature having accepted an invitation to visit the public institutions at Faribault.

HOUSE.—Gov. Merriam sent a special message to the house on the condition of the state finances. On July 31 next there will be a deficiency of $250,000. For further details see the editorial on page 1. The St. Cloud reformatory and for other improvements at charitable and reformatory institutions, $100,000 will be required. To meet this the governor recommends the issue of $400,000 in bonds for the purpose of raising the money. It is estimated that on July 31, 1891, on the basis of the present tax levy, there will be a surplus of $250,000.

Mr. Crossfield's bill prohibiting the sale of liquor within or on the public grounds was passed in committee of the whole, with an amendment extending its provisions to counties and district fairs.

House 278, relating to the sale of liquor, which was unfavorably reported from the committee of the whole, was taken up by the committee of the whole. This was Mr. Stephens' measure providing for the punishment of persons furnishing liquor.

THURSDAY, MARCH 7.

SENATE.—The legislative subcommittee on reorganization reported a scheme for reorganizing the executive branch of the government, and then the subject was postponed.

House.—The bill introduced in the senate by Mr. Bixen providing for the reorganization of the state agricultural college, including the experimental farms, was taken up by the committee of the whole. It was passed in committee of the whole, with an amendment extending its provisions to counties and district fairs.

MINNESOTA IN BRIEF.

A large number of forged checks for small amounts have been in circulation at Duluth lately.

Efforts are being made to hold a musical festival at Red Wing in the near future.

There were but two marriage licenses issued in Washington county during February.

The Pipestone County Agricultural association has decided to hold a fair this fall in connection with the corn palace.

A West End man has brought a suit against the city of Duluth to recover $25,000 for injuries received on account of a defective sidewalk.

Disturbances of the Salvation army meetings in Red Wing are being severely dealt with in the justices court.

At least 50,000 bushels of seed grain will be asked for in Otter Tail county under the recently passed seed grain bill.

The ladies' aid society at Adrian is making arrangements to hold a grand fair and baby show on the evening of March 20.

The outlook for an enlargement of the manufacturing industries at Red Wing is said to be most encouraging.

The Republic says that Jackson enjoyed the spectacle of a lot of boys from 14 to 16 years old drunk one night recently.

H. C. Jackson of Mount Pleasant received a telegram that his mother, Mrs. John A. Jackson, was dying at her home near Tracy.

The boat yard at Wabasha, owned and operated for many years by W. T. Dugan, has been sold to Mr. Godfrey who has been superintendent of the works for some time.

More deaths occurred at Sauk Centre recently than ever before in the same period. During the first three days of the week there were five deaths.

Owing to the great increase in the receipts of corn at Duluth the board of trade has appointed a committee to draft a set of rules governing the trade in that product.

James Morrison, who was convicted of purloining bells from harnesses on the streets of Sauk Centre has been sentenced to jail in default of payment of his fine.

The Deobachter, a German paper published at Mankato, for the last seventeen years by J. M. Broomer, has been sold to Ehrler & Co., who have taken possession.

Thomas F. Robinson, president of the Merchants' Co-operative Chemical and Spice company, of Pipestone, was thrown from his cutter while out driving recently and seriously injured about the head.

John Casserly, living east of Faribault, lost his barn by fire, including six horses, nine cattle and hogs and seven or eight hundred bushels of grain. Loss, $1,600; insurance, $800.

There is great excitement over the coal find in the southwestern part of Jackson county and steps are being taken to organize a company with a capital of $50,000 for the purpose of developing the find.

The First National bank, recently organized in Pipestone, opened with the following officers: Charles Myers, president; C. J. Caley, vice president; Henry Briggs, cashier.

People of Marshall raised a cash bonus of $2,000 for the location at that place of a hundred-barrel steam flouring mill. This offer is open to all until accepted. A St. Peter syndicate is considering its acceptance.

John Holler, who burned his five children and killed his wife at Dickerson, Dak., was once a resident of Albany, Stearns county, and burned his house there. His first wife was killed in a row there.

Arthur A. Walker, the young clerk of the register department of the Minneapolis postoffice who was arrested for robbery, is still in the county jail. His uncle will soon be released from the St. Vincent.

Joseph Unsell, aged forty-three years, son of John Unsell committed suicide at Wabasha by shooting himself through the head. He had recently returned from the west, and was on his way home from a business trip.

Sheriff Mollison of Austin has just received from a friend visiting at Gettysburg, Pa., a cane cut from the spot near Little Round Top, where the First Minnesota regiment lost 307 men in a single engagement.

Sheriff Mollison was in Company G, the old First. Out of about 700 men, only forty survived.

Burglars made an attempt to break into the safe in the office of Dorr & Guppl's meat market at Red Wing, but evidently were frightened away before they finished their work.

They drilled a hole in the safe about half an inch deep, and then they got their tools on the floor, after having ransacked the money drawer and secured $5.25.

Herman Ottman, a prominent man and heavy farmer living near Rice's, in Benton county, met with a serious and painful accident while attempting to board a freight train at Rice's, by which his right leg was broken above the knee and he was otherwise badly bruised, but not fatally injured.

The committee sent by the city council of Fergus Falls to Washington to secure a suspension of the president's order abolishing the United States land office returned without having accomplished the object of its mission.

The committee was composed of Messrs. J. H. Grossman, but was told that the matter of consolidating this land district with that of St. Cloud had been thoroughly discussed, and that at present there was no possible chance of doing anything.

Kant Nelson claimed that he had known nothing about the matter until he saw the order, and the congressman was disposed to be a little wrathful because he had been so entirely ignored in the case.

No Say We, All of Us. Isn't the new phrase "In the soup" rather overworked? It is not very expressive slang; it lacks wit and point. Its origin was with a tough, who saw a roystering companion in the water of the ocean, and as he didn't wish to describe it as "the drink" or "the spill" he manfully spoke of it as "the soup."

It is a holiday. It is observed in India during the full moon in August. On that day numbers of nuts are thrown into the sea as an offering to the Hindoo divinities.

He Gave Her a Chance to Choose. From Brownsburg, Ind., comes the story (true, of course), that a young lady sent a note to a discarded lover requesting the return of a book of which he had written the foreword, and which he had dipped in the hours of courtship, he had dipped in the hours of courtship, he had dipped in the hours of courtship.

He collected a number of oolocks, called from various "best girls" during the evening "career," and forced the book which he had written the foreword, and which he had dipped in the hours of courtship, he had dipped in the hours of courtship, he had dipped in the hours of courtship.

THE HOUSEHOLD.

Hints for the Home.

Old potatoes may be freshened up by plunging them into cold water before cooking.

Cutlets and steaks may be fried as well as boiled, but they must be put in hot butter or lard. The grease is hot enough when it throws off a bluish smoke.

A waterproof appliance for shoes: Beef tallow, four ounces; beeswax, one ounce; melt together, and add when cold an equal quantity of neat's-foot oil. Apply with a woolen rag, rubbing it well with the hand.

If foods are fed that are rich in blood making and muscle-forming character, like bran and oats, the cow puts the fats of the food into the milk, and uses the rest for the support of her system, and stronger food of milk is the result.

The cherry, says the Rural Canadian, is about the only fruit tree which can be recommended for shade in the garden. It is a hardy variety of cherries are not affected by the tramping of stock or the passing of vehicles, which would prove most injurious to most other fruit trees.

In transplanting trees, all the roots which may have become bruised or broken in the process of lifting should be cut clean away behind the broken parts. In such a case the tree will be a clean sloping one, and made in an upward and outward direction.

A Pennsylvania correspondent writes to the Country Gentleman that his Winter grain ration for milk cows is of one-half wheat or buckwheat bran, and the other half meal, made by grinding corn, rye and oats together in equal parts, and give each about four quarts of the mixture twice a day.

For succulent food he feeds pumpkins, storing twenty or thirty loads in his barn basement.

Historically, the sheep clearly ranks first among useful animals, and although they sometimes fall into disrepute and carrying charges are made against them they are bound to go up higher in popular estimation with every year.

CAUGHT IN A STORM.

"We might just as well have been standing behind the counter in New York all these ten days," sighed Barbara Hale, "for all the out-of-the-way adventures we've had!"

"Who wants out-of-the-way adventures?" said Dorcas Dunn scornfully. "Behind the counter, indeed!"

"Chimed in Mary Vanneker. "Can you breathe in clover scented air like this behind the counter? Can you get the mountain view like this from Sixth Avenue? What more would the girl want, I should like to know?"

Barbara sighed once more and shook her head. "It is all so tame," she said. "It isn't what I expected at all."

The three girls—Barbara, Dorcas and Mary—were sitting on a side hill under the shade of a grand old cedar tree. Barbara, who had once taken a quarter's lessons in drawing, had a sketch board on her lap and was trying—with but little success, it must be owned—to reproduce the lovely ribbon like curves of the river that flowed below.

Mary had her needle work in her lap, and Dorcas, with her hands clasped under her head, had long given up all attempt to read the paper covered novel that she had brought with her.

"The sky and the sunshine are so much better," she said. "They were three shopgirls—bright, ambitious, spirited young things, full of life and aspirations, even though they were kept down by the force of circumstances, and they clucked together their slender resources in order to enjoy their vacation to better advantage."

Dorcas, the business member of the firm, had bought an excursion ticket first, and traveled out to Schepp's valley to see what could be done. But it is needless to say that the hotel and boarding house prices were far beyond their simple means.

"Is there no place," said she, "where we could obtain one room and the very simplest fare for less money?"

"You might try Old Man Morris," said the portly dame who kept the Valley house. "It's a quiet place, and Mrs. Morris she ain't no great of a cook, but there's them as has boarded there, I'm told."

"Where is it?" eagerly asked Dorcas. And the landlady went to the door to point out a slender blue thread of smoke that was curling up heavenward from a mass of woods on a distant hill, and once more Dorcas turned up her nose at the prospect, this time with undoubted success.

Sheenagled one room. The board, to be sure, was plain, the beds coarse, the mattress, with a blanket spread on the floor for Dorcas herself, the food was mediocre and the landlady, but there was a grove of pine woods in the rear; the black birds piped their silver flutes all day long, and the bees droned in and out of the red lilacs by the garden wall, and our three heroines believed themselves to be in paradise.

But even as Barbara Hale thus showed herself, a portentous shadow swept across the sun, and looking around, they saw that a mass of fire-purple clouds, dark and ominous, piled themselves up along the western sky, while distant mutterings, and now and then a sudden flash, announcing the coming of a storm.

Dorcas sprang to her feet, Barbara followed her, and the three girls hurriedly to fold up their sketching apparatus. Mary put her thimble and scissors in her pocket.

"We must get home as quickly as possible," cried all three. "The storm is coming, and the clouds of a 'short cut' across a patch of woods they got hopelessly lost. The sun set behind the purple battlement of clouds, the dusk fell rapidly in these dense woods, and the rain began to patter down like a shower of hail."

Barbara, the aspirant after adventure, began to cry. "We are lost!" she said. "Lost? Nonsense!" said brave Dorcas. "When I can see the railway track leading down below, who ever got lost close to a railway line? Let's make for the track."

"And get run over," lamented Barbara. "Not likely when there's only one train a day, and then it's late!" laughed Dorcas. "If we walk along the railway line we must come out somewhere, don't you see?"

"And besides," added Mary, "there is a little ruined cabin not far from here, where the railroad gang used to live before they changed the location of the station. Remember Mrs. Morris showing it to me once."

"Oh, oh!" shrieked Barbara. "I couldn't go there! The flagman was killed on the track. There's a ghastly story!"

"Would you rather stay here and be drenched through with rain?" severely demanded Mary. "Or struck with lightning?" added Dorcas. "Oh, what a lovely story! But the love in the food is delicious, never to be detracted, that all pure love, all right thoughts, all religions, all governments, if we would have them live and flourish, must have their roots beneath its altar."

"Oh, dear! oh, dear!" said Barbara, wringing her hands; "it must be midnight!"

"It can't be 9 o'clock yet," said Mary.

The attempt to dispense with the death penalty in Minnesota was defeated in the legislature on Tuesday.

The house on Monday refused to concur in the senate joint resolution to adjourn April 10th.

SENATOR BUCKMAN, of this district, is leading the fight in the senate for the Duluth & Winnipeg land grant measure. As Senator Buckman proposes to leave this district we suppose he doesn't care whether he works against the interests of his constituents or not. He certainly is doing so.

BRO. HALSTED, of the Tribune, in his editorial notice last week concerning probable candidates for mayor, modestly omitted mentioning the name of the Tribune editor as a probable candidate for that position. The Dispatch appreciates Bro. Halsted's modesty and embraces this opportunity of relieving him by announcing his candidacy.

THERE seems to be considerable uncertainty as to whether the bill repealing the pre-emption and timber culture laws passed congress or not. On the 7th inst. Land Commissioner Stockholder telegraphed all land offices to stop all cash entries because this bill had become a law and now the daily papers claimed the bill failed to pass. Which is right?

Will not Build to Milaca.

The following dispatch to the St. Paul daily press, if true, would indicate that the Manitoba has abandoned their intention of building the B. & N. W. on the route surveyed at present, but will only build on that route to some point between here and Leech Lake, at which point their line will be met by a road to be built from Duluth north of the line of the N. P. However, this would bring the roads not more than 20 miles to the north of this city, and we have no doubt but that it would be built here almost immediately, for the business of a town of this size would certainly warrant the construction of a road much further than this distance.

And further, we have no doubt but that very shortly afterward, the intervening 50 miles between here and Milaca would soon be constructed to make a continuous road from St. Paul to the Leech Lake country. The following is the dispatch referred to:

This morning's dispatches announced that Presidents Hill and Minot, of the Manitoba and Eastern respectively, were in the East for the purpose of obtaining a loan of $5,000,000 for the construction of a road from Crookston to West Superior—a project intended as a black eye for the Duluth & Winnipeg. A person taking an authentic map of the Manitoba has been built from Crookston to Foston, but the old survey has been abandoned.

The construction of the Eastern gave the idea a different complexion and instead of building to Milaca, the Manitoba proper will start the new line about midway, and a Daily News reporter was informed this morning that the intention of the Eastern to build westward from Hinckley to meet the new road, both combining to make a good road from West Superior to Winnipeg. This idea, successfully carried out, will change the railroad situation in this state and seriously affect the Duluth & Winnipeg and Minneapolis millers.

Not the Proper Time.

The following is what Crow Wing's representative had to say concerning the submission of the prohibition question:

"There breathes not a man, woman or child on God's green earth who is more in favor of prohibition than I am, for my wife, my daughter, my son, and my wife's daughter, all hate the liquor traffic. But I do not believe that the time has arrived when this question can safely be submitted to the people. When it comes, I will be in favor of prohibition, but not after hearing the Rev. Sam Smith, Mr. Woolley and others and reading the public press on this subject. I have reached the opinion that to do away with our present high license system would be one of the most fearful acts this legislature could perform. While I have all the respect for the noble ladies of the W. C. T. U., I cannot suffer them to say to me that because I differ with them I am opposed to the cause of temperance. We have been told that there was a large proportion of our population (the Scandinavians) in favor of this measure. I respect them, but I am not willing to wait and see whether the Republican party, whether or not they get any greater relief from the party to which they must go. While this may seem to be a very small matter, it is a very large one, and it is a matter of which we should be very careful. I cannot suffer them to say to me that because I differ with them I am opposed to the cause of temperance. We have been told that there was a large proportion of our population (the Scandinavians) in favor of this measure. I respect them, but I am not willing to wait and see whether the Republican party, whether or not they get any greater relief from the party to which they must go. While this may seem to be a very small matter, it is a very large one, and it is a matter of which we should be very careful.
